RESULTS OF INVESTIGATION

On _____ who was in a position to furnish reliable information, stated that DOROTHY WILSON advised 1957, that HELEN HONE was turning over most of the business to WILSON. WILSON added that she believed HELEN HONE wanted to be associated with the business only to the extent of receiving expense money and as a place to make luncheon dates.

DOROTHY WILSON, according to the informant, also advised that HELEN HONE has a son, JOHN HONE, who works for "AAA" in Washington, D.C., and whose wife works in "Navy Intelligence." WILSON continued with the information that JOHN HONE's wife was being upgraded from a semi-secret position to a top secret position and that the authorities had informed her that she could not have this top secret position because of HELEN HONE's association with WILSON. Too, WILSON advised JOHN HONE's wife was told that it did not appear that she would get the top secret position if she could not be "cleared," and, if she could not be "cleared," they did not believe she was fit to hold her present position. WILSON said JOHN HONE's wife was faced with dismissal, which would have been "frightful," except that she was expecting a child and was leaving in February anyway.

Information concerning DOROTHY WILSON, and HELEN HONE HATTIS' relationship to JOHN L. HONE and association with DOROTHY WILSON has been set forth in a previous report in this matter.
